White House Mum on Leak

Report says aide learned of CIA agent's name from Cheney

WASHINGTON | The White House on Tuesday sidestepped questions about whether Vice President Dick Cheney passed on to his top aide the identity of a CIA officer central to a federal grand jury probe.

Notes in the hands of a federal prosecutor suggest that Cheney's chief of staff, I. Lewis "Scooter" Libby, first heard of the CIA officer from Cheney himself, The New York Times reported in Tuesday's editions. A federal prosecutor is investigating whether the officer's identity was improperly disclosed.

The Times said notes of a previously undisclosed June 12, 2003, conversation between Libby and Cheney appear to differ from Libby's grand jury testimony that he first heard of Valerie Plame from journalists.

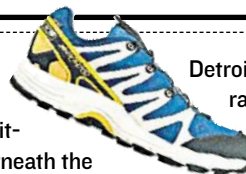

"This is a question relating to an ongoing investigation and we're not having any further comment on the investigation while it's ongoing," White House press secretary Scott McClellan said.

Libby has emerged at the center of Special Counsel Patrick Fitzgerald's criminal investigation in recent weeks because of the Cheney aide's conversations about Plame with Times reporter Judith Miller.

Fitzgerald is expected to decide this week whether to seek criminal indictments in the case. At issue is not only whether Libby, top Bush adviser Karl Rove or other officials leaked Plame's identity, but whether they testified honestly to the grand jury, the secretive panel that will decide whether criminal charges should be filed. INVESTIGATIONS

CSI: At the Office

The head of a Farnham, England, information technology firm demanded his employees submit to a DNA test to find who squashed gum under his desk, the Daily Mail reported. After the gum became stuck to a company official's suit, Tony Price sent a memo to his staff banning gum and saying DNA testing would be used to find the offender. "We are now waiting for a dry cleaning bill," Price said. After an employee took the story to the media, Price said he was only joking—but now he is demanding workers submit to lie-detector tests to figure out who alerted the press. (EXPRESS)

Water, gas are scarce as Fla. residents begin to clean up from storm

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLA. | Repair crews across Florida struggled Tuesday to restore electricity to up to 6 million people, reopen the region's airports and replace countless windows blown out of downtown high-rises during Hurricane Wilma's ruinous dash across the state.

Officials said it could take weeks for Florida's most heavily populated region — the Miami, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach area — to return to normal.

Water and gas became precious commodities, and people waited for hours for free water, ice and food. Lines stretched for blocks at the few gas stations with the electricity needed to pump fuel, and arguments broke out when motorists tried to cut in line. More than 500 people waited outside one store for cleanup supplies.

But barely 24 hours after the Category 3 storm struck, there were signs of recovery.

"We have power! We have power!" several residents of Miami Lakes chanted as they ran out their back doors when the lights came on.

The quantity of debris was daunting: Pieces of roofs, trees, signs, awnings, fences, billboards and pool screens were scattered across several counties. Damage estimates ranged up to $10 billion.

Some of the worst damage was in downtown Fort Lauderdale, where Wilma was the strongest hurricane to strike since 1950. Winds of more than 100 mph blew out windows in high-rises, many built before Florida enacted tougher construction codes following Hurricane Andrew in 1992. ALLEN BREED (AP)

Bus in Wis. Crash Had Bad Brakes

EAU CLAIRE, WIS. | A bus chartered for a high school band that crashed into an overturned truck, killing five people, had defective brakes and shouldn't have been in use, a federal investigator said Tuesday.

However, it was unclear what role the brakes may have played in the crash because there were no skid marks, said David Rayburn, an investigator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

A tractor-trailer rig had jack-knifed on Interstate 94 near Osseo on Oct. 16 and was struck by the bus, carrying the Chippewa Falls High School marching band. The crash killed the band director, his wife and their 11-year-old granddaughter, along with the bus driver and a student teacher.

The bus driver's license required that he wear glasses but he was not at the time of the crash, and he had been awake for 19 hours before the accident, Rayburn said. (AP)

Rosa Parks Remembered

President Bush, others salute civil rights icon for her brave 1955 stand

DETROIT | Nearly 50 years ago, Rosa Parks made a simple decision that sparked a revolution. When a white man demanded she give up her seat on a Montgomery, Alabama, bus, the then 42-year-old seamstress said no.

At the time, she couldn't have known it would secure her a revered place in American history. But her one small act of defiance galvanized a generation of activists, including a young Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., and earned her the title "mother of the civil rights movement."

Parks died Monday evening at her home of natural causes, with close friends by her side, said Gregory Reed, an attorney who represented her for the past 15 years. She was 92.

President Bush praised Parks on Tuesday as "one of the most inspiring women of the 20th century." "She will always have a special place in American history, and our nation thinks of Rosa Parks and her loved ones today," he said.

Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick said he felt a personal tie to the civil rights icon: "She stood up by sitting down. I'm only standing here because of her."

Speaking in 1992, Parks said history too often maintains "that my feet were hurting and I didn't know why I refused to stand up when they told me. But the real reason of my not standing up was I felt that I had a right to be treated as any other passenger. We had endured that kind of treatment for too long."

Her arrest triggered a 381-day boycott of the bus system organized by a then little-known Baptist minister, the Rev. King, who later earned the Nobel Peace Prize for his work. BREE FOWLER (AP)

U.S. Death Toll in Iraq Hits 2,000

Bush warns of more casualties in fight against 'brutal' enemy

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | The American military death toll in the Iraq war reached 2,000 Tuesday with the announcements of three more deaths, including an Army sergeant who died of wounds at a military hospital in Texas and a Marine and a sailor killed last week in fighting west of Baghdad.

President Bush warned the U.S. public to brace for more casualties in the fight against "as brutal an enemy as we have ever faced, unconstrained by any notion of common humanity and by the rules of warfare."

"No one should underestimate the difficulties ahead," Bush said in a speech Tuesday in Washington.

As a sign of those challenges, one of Iraq's most ruthless terror groups — al Qaeda in Iraq — claimed responsibility for Monday's suicide attacks against hotels housing Western journalists and contractors in Baghdad, as well as suicide bombings Tuesday in northern Iraq.

Meanwhile, the number of Iraqis who have died violently since the start of the 2003 U.S.-led invasion continues to soar. In one sign of the enormity of the Iraqi loss, at least 3,870 civilians were killed in the past six months alone, according to an Associated Press count.

One U.S. military spokesman said it is possible the figure for the entire war could be 30,000 Iraqis, which many experts see as a credible estimate.

- 215 were from California, the most of any state.
- 925 died within first three months of their tour of duty
- 40 percent were married.

Iraqi Constitution Approved by Voters

BAGHDAD, IRAQ | Iraq's election commission declared Tuesday that final results from the Oct. 15 referendum show the new constitution was ratified by a huge margin, paving the way for elections. Sunni Arab leaders raised doubts that it would be embraced by those at the heart of the insurgency.

Nearly 79 percent of the 9.8 million voters nationwide supported the charter, the Independent Election Commission announced after a 10-day audit following allegations of fraud. Election official Farid Ayar said the audit turned up no significant fraud.

Despite the strong "yes" vote nationwide, Sunni Arabs came close to scuttling the constitution because of a provision in the law stating that if two-thirds of the voters in any three of the 18 provinces rejected the charter it would be defeated.

Voters in two heavily Sunni Arab provinces overwhelmingly voted against the constitution — by 96 percent in Anbar and about 81 percent in Salahuddin.

About 55 percent of voters in Nineveh province also voted down the charter — falling below the two-thirds threshold. MARIAM FAM (AP)

Syria Urged to Comply With U.N. Probe

UNITED NATIONS | The United States, France and Britain on Tuesday demanded that Syria detain government officials suspected of involvement in the assassination of a former Lebanese prime minister and ensure their cooperation with a U.N. probe or face possible sanctions.

The call was contained in a draft resolution that orders Syria to make the officials or individuals "fully and unconditionally available" to the U.N. investigating commission.

If Syria does not fully cooperate with the investigation, the draft says the council intends to consider "further measures" to ensure compliance, including sanctions.

The United States and France circulated the resolution hours after the chief U.N. investigator, Detlev Mehlis, briefed the council on his report which implicated top Syrian and Lebanese security officials in the car bomb that killed Hariri and 20 other people.

Mehlis has said repeatedly that Syria had not fully cooperated and continuing the probe would be near impossible if Damascus didn't change course. (AP)

President Vicente Fox's office said that about 22,000 foreign tourists remained in the area, down from a peak of almost 40,000.

Thousands of tourists rushed to Cancun's international airport after officials said Tuesday that 27 flights would be leaving.

Mark Davis of Shelby Township, Mich., said he'd paid $50 for a taxi to the airport — at least $10 more than the standard fare. "That was the hurricane discount," he joked while stuck in line along the road.

But troops turned back a mile-long line of taxis, vans and buses before they could reach the badly damaged airport.

Only later did Mexico's Tourism Department circulate a bulletin saying the first flights were reserved for tour groups — forcing individuals to wait even longer. WILL WEISSERT (AP)

District Moves to Seize Properties for Stadium

WASHINGTON | The District government filed court papers Tuesday to seize $84 million worth of property from 16 owners in Southeast for a new baseball stadium.

The city's action was anticipated and is an attempt to meet the construction timetable for the ballpark, which is scheduled to open in March 2008. Under eminent domain law, property owners and their tenants must leave the properties within 90 days unless a judge declares the seizure unconstitutional.

In papers filed in D.C. Superior Court, city attorneys said: "The Properties subject of this action ... are taken for an authorized municipal use, namely the construction and operation of a publicly owned baseball stadium complex."

In all, 23 property owners control 14 acres of land at the stadium site near South Capitol Street and the Navy Yard along the Anacostia River. City officials said they have agreed to buy land from seven owners, who were not named in the court filing.

The city had offered those seven owners a total of $13 million for their properties, but it is not known if that is the agreed upon sale price. The other 16 owners have not agreed to sell.

Sex Offender Penalties May Toughen

RICHMOND, VA. | The Virginia State Crime Commission's sex offender task force on Tuesday recommended a mandatory minimum 25-year sentence for first-time sexual offenders who assault children younger than 13.

The penalty would apply to the crimes of forcible sodomy, sexual penetration with an object and rape.

Currently, perpetrators of such crimes face sentences of five years to life in prison. (AP)

TRIMMED SCHEDULE: Virginia Railway Express is cutting late morning service on the Manassas Line starting Nov. 28 to deal with higher fuel costs. Train No. 334 usually arrives weekdays at 11:30 a.m. at Union Station, but because of low ridership, VRE is eliminating the service. The move could save the commuter railroad $680,000 over the next year. (AP)

NEW YORK Holiday Shopping Forecast Dims on New Consumer Data

The outlook for the holiday shopping season darkened Tuesday as the latest consumer confidence reading showed Americans even more pessimistic about the economy during October. Hurricanes, surging gasoline prices and worries about the job market took a further toll on consumer psyches. The Conference Board said its Consumer Confidence Index fell to 85 in October, the lowest level since October 2003 and down from September's revised reading of 87.5, which had been the sharpest drop in 15 years. COLLEGE PARK, MD. Top Defense Contractors Report Mixed Earnings

Hurricane damage to shipyards battered Northrop Grumman's third-quarter earnings, the company reported Tuesday, while fellow defense contractor Lockheed Martin said it had higher quarterly profits across its space, information technology and aircraft divisions. Despite the mixed sector results, the companies said their earnings were helped by business segments outside of big military hardware such as government IT and electronics sales. (AP)

McDonald's to Add Food Labels

Fast-food giant plans to put nutrition data on packaging in '06

CHICAGO | McDonald's Corp. announced Tuesday that it will display nutrition information on the packaging for most of its menu items next year.

The world's largest restaurant company, like other fast-food chains, already has detailed nutrition information posted on its Web site, and a list of menu items and their content was available at many outlets when consumers requested it.

But the chain had resisted calls to post calories and fat content prominently in its restaurants or on its packaging.

The new packaging will be introduced in McDonald's restaurants in North America, Europe, Asia and Latin America starting in the first half of 2006.

In announcing the latest push to improve its image on health issues, Oak Brook, Ill.-based McDonald's said it demonstrates its commitment to promoting balanced, active lifestyles.

McDonald's meals will soon be served up with a side of nutrition information.

McDonald's has been a magnet for complaints that fast food is unhealthy. It was targeted by the 2003 film "Supersize Me," which focused on the health risks of an all fast-food diet, and hit with a lawsuit blaming the company for the obesity of teenage customers, although that suit was dismissed. (AP)

BY THE NUMBERS: Energy group BP PLC, one of the world's largest oil companies, reported a 34 percent rise in quarterly profit Tuesday as record energy prices helped to offset hurricane damage to its rigs and refineries. BP said net profit for the three months ended Sept. 30 rose to $6.53 billion, up from $4.87 billion in same period of 2004. (AP)

Dust, dirt, pollen, animal dander and other air-borne contaminants are pulled into your duct system every time the furnace or air conditioner runs.

These contaminants build up inside the ductwork over time and can help make your duct system a breeding ground for mold spores, bacteria, fungus, mildew and other microbes.

Each time the furnace or air conditioner is turned on, contaminants are spewed out and circulated throughout your home and affect the health and comfort of your family.

Family members who suffer from allergies, asthma or other respiratory ailments as well as children and the elderly are especially vulnerable to the effects of indoor air pollutants.

The removal of contaminants from the entire HVAC system is recognized by industry experts as the most effective way to eliminate air duct pollutants. This is referred to as the "source removal" method of duct cleaning.

In addition to the obvious health benefits, ducts cleaning can help you maintain a cleaner home. It also helps to restore HVAC system capacity and lessen running time, resulting in lower heating and cooling bills.

The HEPA-AIRE method used by our company assures you that your ducts are being cleaned with the most advanced source removal equipment available.

Wilma Forces Cancellation Of Weekend Game in Florida

Hurricane Wilma caused some minor damage to the Florida Panthers' arena, prompting the NHL to postpone another game because of the storm. Saturday's scheduled visit by the Washington Capitals has been pushed back indefinitely, the league said Tuesday. It's the second straight Panthers home game affected by Wilma; last Saturday's scheduled visit by Ottawa will be played Dec. 5. The Bank Atlantic Center is running on generator power and little else, a Panthers spokesman said. (AP)

With Pro Bowler David Akers still recovering from a hamstring injury, the Philadelphia Eagles on Tuesday claimed Jose Cortez off waivers from Dallas. DOWN, NOT OUT: While Maryland took a beating vs. Va. Tech last week, the Terps are still eyeing the ACC title game as a goal.

No Pain, No Gain for Terps

Starting QB, RB may miss game vs. Florida St.

TERPS FOOTBALL | Maryland hasn't abandoned hope of playing in the Atlantic Coast Conference championship football game, although the Terrapins' chances of fulfilling that ambitious goal could be threatened by injuries to quarterback Sam Hollenbach and running back Keon Lattimore.

Hollenbach sprained his left shoulder in Maryland's 28-9 loss to No. 3 Virginia Tech last Thursday. He has not practiced since then, and will likely be held out of Saturday's showdown against 10th-ranked Florida State if he cannot go at full speed Wednesday.

Lattimore, who also hurt his shoulder against Virginia Tech, has been a key facet of the Maryland ground game. The sophomore tailback has started the past two games, ranks third on the team with 181 yards rushing and is tied for second with three touchdowns. If he cannot play, Mario Merrills and Lance Ball will split time at running back.

Hollenbach throws with his right arm, but the injury affects his mechanics and ability to run. His backup is Joel Statham, who started 10 games last season, completing 54 percent of his passes but throwing 15 interceptions compared to eight touchdowns.

Maryland (4-3, 2-2) lost 14 in a row to Florida State before last year, when Statham led the Terrapins to their first-ever win over the Seminoles, 20-17. Whether it is Hollenbach or Statham taking the snaps Saturday, Maryland will be pressed to pull off an encore.

Florida State (6-1, 4-1) lead the ACC's Atlantic Division by a half-game over Boston College. Maryland faces B.C. on Nov. 19, which gives coach Ralph Friedgen reason to believe the Terrapins can still win the division and play for the ACC title in Jacksonville on Dec. 3. "If you do the math, we're not out of this thing," he said. DAVID GINSBURG (AP)

Giants owner Wellington Mara was inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1997.

Longtime N.Y. Owner Dies at 89

APPRECIATION | Wellington Mara of the New York Giants, one of the NFL's most influential owners for more than a half century and the last of the league's founding generation, died Tuesday. He was 89.

Mara, who was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1997, died of cancer at his home in Rye, N.Y., the team said.

"Wellington Mara represented the heart and soul of the National Football League," NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue said. "He was a man of deep conviction who stood as a beacon of integrity."

One of Mara's greatest contributions came in the early 1960s. He and brother Jack, owners of the biggest team in the biggest market, agreed to share television revenue on a league-wide basis. That concept of revenue sharing allowed the NFL to thrive and remains in place today.

In 1930, at 14, his father made him co-owner with older brother Jack, and he ran the club until several years ago when son John took over day-to-day operations. "I've never had more respect for anybody in this business, or in any business, or in any walk of life, than Wellington Mara," said Giants coach Tom Coughlin.

Crimson Tide in Search of Perfection

But No. 5 Alabama may be left out in the BCS

COLLEGE FOOTBALL | Alabama quarterback Brodie Croyle wondered aloud before the season, "Why not us?"

Why can't the Crimson Tide be 2005's version of Auburn?

He meant coming out of nowhere for an undefeated season, like last year's Tigers, not getting shut out of the national championship picture — like last year's Tigers.

Both prospects are seeming less far-fetched with each passing week for the fifth-ranked Tide, stuck in fifth place in the BCS standings despite victories over Tennessee and Florida and a 7-0 start.

"If you go undefeated and you do

Alabama is off to a 7-0 start this year.

what Auburn did last year, I don't know about them but I'd argue until the day I die that we were the best team that played in the year 2005," Croyle said Tuesday.

But, like Auburn in 2004, the Tide could easily be one of the teams left out of the national championship picture, even if it finishes with a perfect record and SEC title. Texas, Southern California, Virginia Tech and SEC rival Georgia are ahead of Alabama in the BCS standings.

Changing Face of Baseball

Astros the first World Series team without a black player in 52 years

BASEBALL | Joe Morgan worries about the face of baseball. Watching the World Series, the Hall of Famer is troubled by what he sees.

His old team, the Houston Astros, is down 2-0 to the Chicago White Sox, but it's not their lineup that concerns Morgan. It's their makeup.

The Astros are the first World Series team in more than a half-century with a roster that doesn't include a single African-American player.

"Of course I noticed it. How could you not?" Morgan said. "But they're not the only ones. There are two or three teams that didn't have any African-American players this year."

Morgan said it's a predicament and a challenge for Major League Baseball. While more players from

United Moves On From Freddygate

UNITED | Freddy Adu was all smiles at D.C. United's awards reception Monday night. He mingled and laughed with his teammates, worked the room and drew a few "oohs" when his spectacular goal in Salt Lake City was replayed.

He did not speak publicly but appeared far removed from the controversy caused by last week's complaints about playing time. Meantime, his coach and teammates were clear that those comments, and Adu's subsequent suspension, were a much bigger deal in the media than in the locker room.

"The issue is over. Freddy's already in our plans for this weekend. We believe he's a great player and he will help us win the championship," said coach Peter Nowak.

Although Adu never formally apologized to the group as Nowak and United's front office hoped he would, he reportedly has spoken to many of his teammates and has been positive and focused at practice. Some United players have expressed disappointment in the timing of Adu's outburst, but all resist the notion that professional athletes would be distracted by the comments of one young player on the eve of the postseason.

"If your thoughts are on something else, you probably, A, won't be on the field, and B, shouldn't be there," midfielder Josh Gros said. "I don't think there's any distractions. That's no excuse for anything."

Caps Call Up Laich For Offense

CAPITALS | The Washington Capitals recalled forward Brooks Laich from Hershey of the AHL on Tuesday and assigned forward Boyd Gordon to the minor league club.

Laich is tied for fifth in the AHL with six goals, and he leads Hershey with 10 points in seven games. He has at least one goal in four of his past five games.

Laich has appeared in a total of five NHL games with the Capitals and Ottawa Senators.

Gordon played in all nine of the Capitals' games this season without recording a point.

Only two NHL teams have scored fewer goals than Washington's 20, and the Caps have given up 40 goals. (AP)

Cowher: Don't Overlook the Ravens

RAVENS | If Pittsburgh Steelers coach Bill Cowher is trying to send a message to his players through the media before Monday night's game against Baltimore, it's this: Don't assume.

Don't assume this will be an easy game because the Steelers (4-2) are coming off their biggest victory of the season, beating AFC North leader Cincinnati (5-2) on the road 27-13 Sunday, and the injury-depleted Ravens (2-4) lost to Chicago 10-6.

And don't assume that playing the first Monday night game in

GENE J. PUSKAS/AP

Pittsburgh since 2002 means the attention to detail and the ability to overcome setbacks they displayed in Cincinnati will automatically be there at home.

"They are 2-4 and that makes them a lot more dangerous," Cowher said on Tuesday. "Certainly, from their standpoint, they cannot afford to fall 3½ games back because Cincinnati is the team we're all chasing. This is a team that's used to winning and we're going to get their best shot, no doubt about that."

DON'T CALL IT A COMEBACK, AGAIN: Val Kilmer co-stars with Downey in Shane Black's dark comedy "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang."

'Kiss' of Destiny

Robert Downey Jr.'s difficult journey led him to a comic caper

MEANT TO BE | The notion of destiny underlies Robert Downey Jr.'s film-noir caper "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang."

Downey embraces the idea that his journey from brat-pack star to Academy Award nominee to addict and jailbird to Hollywood reclamation project had providence behind it.

After recurring drug and alcohol problems in the 1990s, prison time, court-ordered rehab and probation that ended in 2002, the clean and sober Downey has a new wife and a career as busy as he's ever had.

"I think part of my destiny has to be realizing that I'm not the poster boy for drug abuse," Downey said. "I'm just this guy who has a really strong sense of wanting home and wanting foundation and, having not had it, I now choose to create it."

Downey, 40, connects the dots that brought him to "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang," a comic crime tale in which he plays a petty crook who blunders into a Hollywood audition and a training session with a private eye (Val Kilmer) working as a movie adviser.

Among the connections is producer Joel Silver, who gave Downey an early break on the 1985 teen comedy "Weird Science." Silver produced "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang," after also overseeing Downey on the comeback trail in 2003's "Gothika." That was the film on which Downey met Susan Levin, one of Silver's producing partners. Downey and Levin were married in August.

Along with Silver and old buddy Mel Gibson, "Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang" writer-director Shane Black hopped on board.

Downey recalls bumping into Black about 15 years ago at a Los Angeles supermarket where, "I was in there on some probably insaniac mission at, you know, 2 in the morning." Black said he should write something for Downey, who suggested that Black also direct it.

"Kiss Kiss, Bang Bang" is a whirlwind of action, dialogue and very voice-overs by Downey, the film contorting Hollywood conventions of the detective story while simultaneously embracing them. Downey's character does all the wrong things and somehow lands on his feet, a story arc resembling the actor's own.

"I feel like I had that thing I always craved," said Downey. "Which is like our platoon leader gave me a mission and I did it, and I donate the medal of honor to my fellow soldiers."

CROWDED HOUSE: The Junkies take their chatty-frat-boys act to the morning drive.

The Junkies will add Baltimore as an outlet, while Orlando will feature the team of Drew and Mel while Austin will air Star & Buc Wild.

The biggest market goes to ex-Van Halen front man Roth and comedian Carolla. Roth, who appeared Tuesday morning on Stern's nationally syndicated show to announced the move, will start in January in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, West Palm Beach and Dallas.

Carolla takes over on the Infinity stations in Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix, Portland and Las Vegas.

"When we set out to find a replacement for Howard Stern, we took the opportunity to cultivate a wide array of talent, from both in and out of the radio industry," said Joel Hollander, Infinity's chairman and CEO. LARRY MCSHANE (AP)

BUG DEVICE | For someone used to confronting vengeful gods, vampire bats must seem like chicken feed.

In the CBS movie "Vampire Bats," Lucy Lawless — the scantily clad, weapon-wielding superwoman in the syndicated action series "Xena: Warrior Princess" — plays Dr. Maddy Rierdon, "an everywoman," as Lawless calls her.

Lawless first appeared as Rierdon in April, taking on a plague of bioengineered insects in "Locusts." That movie's appeal to a younger demographic spawned this sequel, which airs on Sunday at 9 p.m.

Lawless has no pretensions about "Vampire Bats" having a serious message, although the tale does indicate industrial pollution mutated the bats into monsters.

"It's really fun and the people who make it are fun. They don't take themselves too seriously," said Lawless, explaining why she signed on to play a character, who is — bats aside — closer to her own reality as a working mother of three.

■ The Drexel University College of Law is bringing Drexel's strengths—cooperative education, a focus on technology and our "living laboratory" of Philadelphia—to legal education. Our curriculum emphasizes today's most important areas of law, including intellectual property, health care and entrepreneurial business. Drexel is ranked as one of the Best National Universities—Top Schools by U.S. News & World Report, and that quality is reflected in the College of Law.

Drexel University is fully informed as to the Standards and Rules of Procedure for the Approval of Law Schools by the American Bar Association. The Administration of the University and those who will be the officials of the College of Law are determined to devote all necessary resources and in other respects to take all necessary steps to present a program of legal education that will qualify for approval by the American Bar Association prior to the graduation of any matriculating class.

A Little Euro in Your Car

The Kia Rio5 has a Continental attitude — and two ashtrays

ROAD TEST | In its nonjudgmental accommodation of smokers (not one but two ashtrays and a nice cigarette lighter) and a lot of other ways, the Kia Rio5 feels like a European car. Europeans pay a variety of taxes and penalties based on the size of their cars, not to mention $6 to $7 per gallon of gas. And just by virtue of the tighter streets in centuries-old cities, smaller cars are far more practical. Four-door hatchbacks, which offer the maximum utility over the smallest shadow, make perfect sense, whereas in the U.S. they have always seemed like the car to drive if you lost a bet.

The American car market stands to become a lot more European. Honda and Nissan are both bringing new subcompact cars to the United States next year, encouraged by the tectonic shift of gasoline prices. Toyota is replacing the Echo with the Yaris; GM's Daewoo-built Aveo and the Hyundai Accent are both well-established. Suzuki has the Aerio and the Reno five-door. Toyota's Scion xA provides the benchmark in this segment for charm and over-achieving value. Perhaps the larger point is that these cars suggest a subtle change in American car culture, which has taken as an article of faith that we should consume as much as we can afford. What if, like Europeans, we were to buy less car than we could afford? Would that be so bad?

Not really, and the Kia is proof. Redesigned for 2006 and now sharing a platform with the Hyundai Accent, the Kia Rio family starts with a stripper version of the sedan for $11,110 that, while lacking air-conditioning and power anything, does have two sets of side air bags. The LX package kicks in air-conditioning and a few other niceties for under $13,000. Don't get me wrong: This is still a buzzy little car when you thrash it, and full acceleration passing can sound like two DustBusters taped to your head. Yet it's surprisingly tight and well-screwed together.

The top-shelf Rio5 SX, starting at $14,000, has a nice, friendly face and bowed-up window line like that of the Focus hatch. It has a thick black gusset wrapped around the body to protect the car from the predations of swinging doors, and there's a little aero foil at the top of the hatch. It's no great beauty, but it does have a fetching joie de vivre.

In terms of handling dynamics, the car is a classic European

2006 KIA RIO5 SX

- POWERTRAIN: 1.6-liter, dual-overhead cam, 16-valve inline four with variable valve timing; five-speed manual transmission; front-wheel drive
- HORSEPOWER: 110 at 6,000 rpm
- TORQUE: 107 pound-feet at 4,500
- MILEAGE: 32 mpg city, 35 hwy
- BASE PRICE: $14,040

front-drive compact, with a lot of articulation in the front strut suspension and a fair amount of body roll, which means that you can lift the inside wheel and make the tires squeal (the rear suspension comprises coil springs over a torsion-beam rear axle). The ride is solid and nicely syrupy for so little a car, with big hits nulled out quickly. The fixed steering ratio is relatively high, which makes the car lively at the wheel and easier to park.

Will anyone downsize from a 7-series BMW to this Rio5 RX? Not without antidepressants. But this is a likable, livable car offering a refreshing sense of European metropolitanism.

LIVE ONLINE

Car Care

Automotive expert PAT GOSS owns Pat Goss Car World, Inc., a local car repair company. He chats monthly on washingtonpost.com/cars.

I recently had to put my Honda Civic EX in the shop when the engine light came on. Turns out mice had built a nest and chewed through the transmission cables. There is no evidence of mice anywhere near where my car has been parked. Any suggestions on how to avoid this problem in the future?

That is an incredibly common problem and extremely difficult to deal with. In some cases, pest exterminators have suggestions. Some folks say moth balls work, but I have seen no evidence of that working with anything other than cats. There are also some specialty companies you can access on the Internet that claim to have solutions. We've tested some and found them to be totally without merit. So I guess the answer is, I really don't have an answer. Sorry.

What do you think of the late model (2003-06) Passats, in terms of repair costs and dependability? I am in need of a new (or used) car, because my old Passat (1999) was totaled in an accident. Any suggestions for alternative makes/models?

If you liked your 1999 Passat and were happy with its dependability and repair costs, you will absolutely love a newer one, especially a 2006. Far, far improved. Alternates include the Honda Accord, Toyota Camry, Buick Lacross, Nissan Altima and a bunch of other really great cars these days.

Is it ever OK to use aftermarket parts? Should you stick with what the manufacturer recommends?

Absolutely it's OK. In many cases, you'll find that it could even be beneficial. There are many aftermarket companies that redesign original equipment parts for better durability or performance. They're frequently referred to as problem solvers. However, it is imperative that you ask questions about the aftermarket parts. Just as there are superior aftermarket parts, there is also a lot of junk.

My BMW requires a special tool to remove the "oil service" light on the dash. Who can do this?

You just need to call some of the shops in your area. Lots of places have the tools.

Lend a Helping Hand to the Defenseless Through Workplace Giving

For two decades the National Right to Life Educational Trust Fund has been the leader of a huge nationwide outreach to educate Americans about the grave threat posed to vulnerable people by abortion, infanticide and euthanasia. When you designate the National Right to Life Educational Trust Fund (agency #2844), your contribution enables us to be a voice for millions of innocent human beings who cannot speak for themselves.

This fall federal employees can contribute through the Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). Many state and local governments also offer employee campaigns. In addition, private sector and United Way employees can participate in workplace giving by pledging to:

Safety

Pedestrians armed with flags are popping up in D.C., other cities

When 12-year-old Serena Seward and Sarah Appel cross a busy intersection in Northwest Washington, they carry a bright orange flag.

It's a simple idea — the flags catch the attention of drivers and remind them that city law requires cars to yield to pedestrians in crosswalks.

D.C.'s crosswalk flag program, being tested at two high-traffic locations on Connecticut Avenue NW, mirrors efforts in several other cities.

One recent fall afternoon, Serena was thinking of more than safety when she picked up the flag on one side of the street, waved it at drivers as she crossed and then deposited it on the other side.

"Truthfully, I just wanted to look weird. It was fun," she said, even as she admitted that she uses the “Last year we were the most improved city in the country in pedestrian safety, and I think a lot of that is due to the flags.”

Safe Crossing

flags regularly.

Weird or not, the flags have been successful in reducing pedestrian accidents in cities that are using them, say supporters, including D.C. Mayor Anthony A. Williams.

Kirkland, Wash., a suburb of Seattle, started using pedestrian flags after a resident saw them in Japan and presented the idea to the city council in 1995.

Salt Lake City began its flag program four years ago. Mayor Rocky Anderson made pedestrian safety a priority after witnessing a man lying in a crosswalk after being hit by a car.

Since 2001, the city reports a 31 percent drop in accidents involving pedestrians. "Last year we were the most improved city in the country in pedestrian safety, and I think a lot of that is due to the flags," Anderson said, referring to a 2004 Surface Transportation Policy Project report.

But in Berkeley, Calif., flag thieves effectively ended the city's program, which had begun in 2001. Within a year, the city's entire stock of 3,000 flags disappeared. They were replaced, but proved mysteriously irresistible as a sky-high van-

City officials finally put the program to rest in 2004, citing theft, rare flag usage and lack of an obvious change in both pedestrians' and drivers' habits.

Washington is betting on an experience similar to Salt Lake City's. D.C. resident Babs Rivera said she uses the new flags all the time. "People just aren't courteous" to pedestrians, she said.

But there are some holdouts. "I feel ridiculous crossing the street waving a huge flag," said Katherine Hutchens, 24, after navigating the crosswalk empty-handed.

A Rising Ancient City

Travel

Tourists are flocking to the old Guatemala town of Antigua

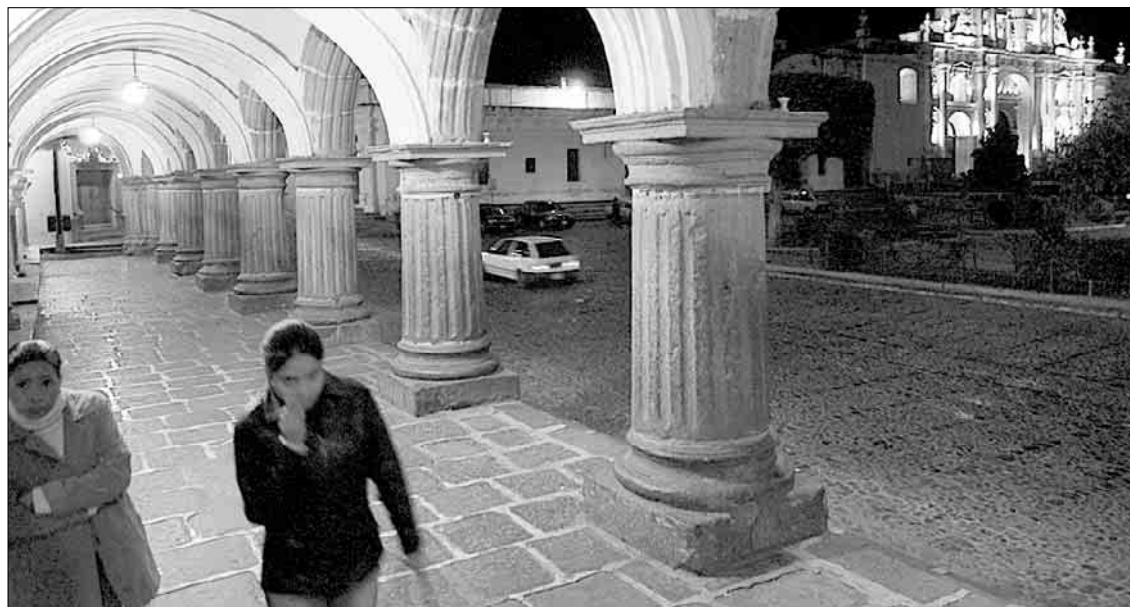

In a word, Antigua is old.

It has been perched in Guatemala's forested Panchoy Valley for more than 450 years, was one of the Americas' largest cities around the time of the Spanish Armada and was nearly wiped off the map by an earthquake three years before the U.S. Declaration of Independence was signed. Even its name means "old."

But it's new to the thousands of tourists arriving from every corner of the globe every day.

Nearly a decade after the end of a 36-year civil war that left 200,000 people dead, Guatemala is starting to shed its bloodstained reputation and earn new fame as a top tourist destination.

Few places in the hemisphere offer so much variety — ancient ruins, jungle rain forests, white-water rapids, 33 volcanos, beaches, Antigua, the Guatemalan city that was one of the largest in the Americas in the 16th century, is a popular tourist destination.

colonial hideaways and the modern-day cultural influence of 22 Mayan cultures. A 2½-hour flight from Miami, Guatemala is roughly the size of Ohio.

Just under 1.2 million foreigners visited Guatemala in 2004, nearly 300,000 of those Americans, and officials hope to surpass 1.4 million this year.

Those tallies have yet to catch

Costa Rica, an ecotourism mecca that has for decades been considered the safest place in Central America. That country's tourism institute reported 1.7 million foreign visitors in 2004.

Popular with backpackers, well-heeled travelers, families and students studying Spanish, Antigua offers colonial beauty and breathtaking natural views set to the tinklings of xylophone-heavy Marimba music, which drifts in from all directions day and night.

Then called Santiago de los Caballeros, the city was the nation's capital until the 1773 quake prompted the government to move to present-day Guatemala City, 30 miles to the east.

Dozens of churches and the crumbling stone remains of Spanish-conquest era structures abound. Many tourists prefer to simply wander the cobblestone streets, however, peeking inside stores offering Mayan weavings and clothing in a dizzying array of colors — all handmade and available on-the-cheap by U.S. standards.

More adventurous visitors can opt for a steep climb up the dormant Agua Volcano, which towers 13,500 feet above Antigua.

An easier hike scales the gravel-covered slopes of the ever-smoldering Pacaya Volcano. Daylong excursions leave every morning from Antigua, though the volcano is about an hour bus ride away.

Antigua's popularity isn't good news for everyone. Rebecca Corry and Dennis Hedges, retired school teachers from Taos, N.M., first came to Antigua in 1995 — and liked it better back then.

"Now it's more industrialized, more cosmopolitan, more prepared for tourists," Corry said. "But I kind of enjoyed it more before. We like sleepy." WILL WEISSERT (AP)

“Now it's more industrialized, more cosmopolitan, more prepared for tourists.”

Horoscope

By Stella Wilder

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Your stamina will see you through, though toward the end you may find that your creativity is at its lowest level in weeks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) It is important that you remain open and receptive no matter what comes your way. Some may be defensive; you cannot afford to be.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pay close attention to the messages your unconscious is sending you. Your dreams may be pointing the way out of a difficult situation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don’t meet stubbornness with stubbornness, or neither party will get very far at all. Be a little more flexible.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Don’t be so eager to impress that you become intrusive or overbearing. Remember, the less you say the more they’ll want to hear.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may be in need of a little timely reinforcement, if only because what you are up against may challenge you in a new and unexpected way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may be on a short fuse, so avoid any people or situations that you know will try your patience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You’re not likely to encounter many problems, but the one or two that do arise may prove stubborn though not impossible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone may seem annoying to you, and it won’t be any surprise at all who it is. You can nip this in the bud.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you are too forthright and eager to express yourself, others will mistake your actions for intrusion or a desire to dominate the situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is no place for secrets of any kind, so do what you can to dispel rumors. It may be necessary for you to take over for a while.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Strive to avoid any head-on confrontations if at all possible. You can see to it that harmony persists as long as you maintain your charm.

ANDREA BONIOR, PH.D.

What's Past Is Prologue

After I broke up with my only boyfriend, I became very promiscuous. Some things happened that, although I'm not proud of them, I do not regret, as they taught me valuable life lessons. One was an AIDS scare (thankfully, all of my tests were negative). I also had physical relationships with two married men. For the past nine months, I've been involved with a woman. What responsibility do I have to tell my future mate(s) about all this? And when is a good time to do it? Before she met my dad, my mom was also very promiscuous. She didn't tell him until two years into their marriage and the effects have been felt ever since. I'm afraid I could scare someone away. —D.C.

There are a wide array of options between enumerating your sexual experiences before the appetizers arrive versus committing your life to someone without their having any inkling about your past. You're already one step ahead of your mother by realizing how much your history has taught you and that it's part of who you are; it's not a big blackhead to keep dabbing at with makeup.

In terms of timelines, your past is something that needs to be understood in the context of who you are, which usually can't happen until at least a few dates go by. In the end, though, there is no numerical yardstick. If you want the emotional intimacy that makes a committed relationship worth having, hiding your past would mean never being loved or understood for who you really are. Please make sure you get checked out again by a doctor, however. If there are STDs in the picture, it's imperative that some disclosure happens before physical intimacy does.

My brother really wants me to get him a job where I work. At first I said I would help, because it would be fun to work together. But lately I'm having second thoughts, and I really feel like a jerk. I wish he'd get a job somewhere else. Is it a horrible thing to pretend I did what I could and that they just weren't interested? —BAD BRO, ARLINGTON

Horrible like stealing food from the needy? No. Horrible like stealing a parking space someone's been waiting for patiently? Yes. It's not written into the constitution of brotherhood that you must provide an inside track to a job. But what your bro does deserve is honesty — pretending he wasn't good enough isn't fair. Tell him you've rethought the situation and you feel submitting his resume might not be a good idea. Let him proceed from there, and your conscience should be clear.

Send your mental health and emotional wellness questions to Andrea Bonior, Ph.D. at baggage@readexpress.com. This column is not a substitute for one-on-one care.

Reflections on Rosa Parks

I WISH ROSA PARKS' story entered into our minds more often. I regularly see young people situated at the front of the bus, chatting loudly on their cell phones, lamenting the previous night's lack of sensual success. All the while they manage to ignore the elderly person who struggles to lift themselves onto the bus and then beyond those already-occupied, easy-to-reach seats. I can't help but think that, like Mrs. Parks considered many years ago, it would be wise for us to ask ourselves why we are sitting and what privileges our seats entail. Our conduct may not shape the face of a nation, but at the very least it could help shape us.

Candy Grand

✱ You probably still remember the house that gave out full-sized candy bars. And that you never egged or TP'd that house.

Stage a preemptive strike with gourmet goodies that will shock and awe vengeful kiddies, party guests and possibly your wallet. ANN MARIE CZABAN

BRITS DO IT BETTER

↑ CADBURY isn't just for Easter. The crispy, honeycombed Crunchie is unlike any American candy bar, Double Decker is Three Musketeers-meets-Nestle's Crunch, and Bounty is full of coconut goodness. ($1.50 TO $2 EACH, THE BRITISH COLLECTION, 119 S. ROYAL STREET, ALEXANDRIA)

THAT'S AMORE

← Decadent and heavenly, Italy's creamy SORINI truffles (in milk chocolate and hazelnut) melt in your mouth and your hand. And when it comes right down to it, kids like making a mess, anyway. ($7 FOR 30 PIECES, WORLD MARKET, PENTAGON ROW)

FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE

↓ Celebrate freedom with chocolates from our former Cold War foes, in flavors like poppy, pineapple crisp and vodka. Well, maybe keep the vodka for yourself. ($6 PER POUND, RUSSIAN GOURMET GROCERY AND DELI, 1396 CHAIN BRIDGE RD., MCLEAN)

Cleaning

Who's the Hottie?

Get a load of that tall, svelte, stylin' drink of water! No, not "Kitchen Confidential" star Bradley Cooper — the SWIFFER CARPETFLICK ($13, comes with four cartridges). The ultra-light sweeper functions on the flypaper theory, grabbing dirt with a sticky piece of cardboard. It's well-suited to the office, where it gobbled up bagel crumbs and spilled sugar. HOLLY J. MORRIS (EXPRESS)

Weird

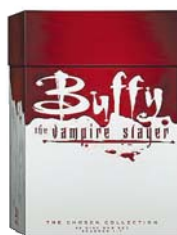

Scientific Name: Dorkus Malorkus

A perfect winter day is spent on the slopes, topped off with an evening spent in front of the fire with a strapping man named Sven. That's not gonna happen if you wear the CRAZEEHEADS ski helmet covers ($24 to $33, crazeeheads.com). Originally only for children, they now come in adult sizes. Animals include a lion, a monkey and a panda. KRISTEN PAGE-KIRBY (EXPRESS)

HOW TO USE

Apartments.com Directory

A. Location

You'll see that the directory listings in this issue are geographically arranged by state, county and city to make your apartment search easy. There are also an abundance of apartment communities on our display pages that increase your choices in the areas that you are considering.

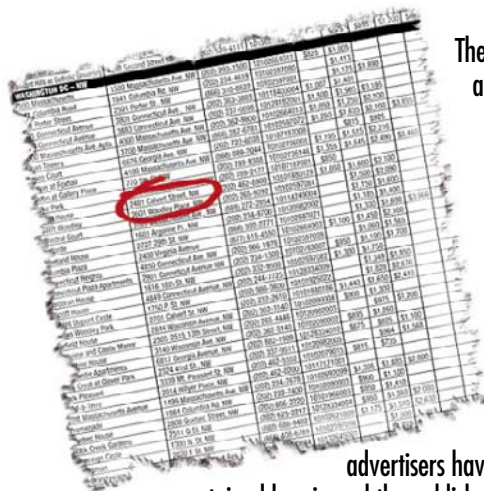

B. Price

Each listing contains the most up-to-date information about the apartment's starting rental rates, its phone number and apartments.com Web #

C. Web ID

Log onto www.washingtonpost.com/apartments, select search by Web # and enter the community Web # number into the search box. There you will find photos, maps, directions, school information, pet policies, features, amenities and much more. There's no better source of the detailed information you need to find the perfect new home than apartments.com
